Drawings

The drawings are objected to as failing to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(p)(5) because they do not include the following reference sign(s) mentioned in the description: “inferior end (2a)” mentioned on page 12, line 22, “MM axis” mentioned on page 15, line 18, and “distal end (API)” mentioned on page 16, line 16 are not shown in the drawings. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either “Replacement Sheet” or “New Sheet” pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

The drawings are objected to as failing to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(p)(5) because they include the following reference character(s) not mentioned in the description: “b” in Figure 2 is not mentioned in the specification. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d), or amendment to the specification to add the reference character(s) in the description in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(b) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Zarins et al. (USPAP 2003/0204242).

Zarins et al. disclose an endoluminal prosthetic assembly with all the elements of claim 1. Because it meets all the claimed structural elements of the body, as best understood by the examiner, the endoluminal prosthetic assembly is structurally capable of providing as a fenestrated asymmetric intracardiac device for the completion of total cavopulmonary anastomosis through cardiac catheterization. Because the claims do not conform to current U.S. practice, it is unclear if what follows the first period in each claim is a claimed limitation of the invention or not. See Figures 3A, 3B and 5 for first inferior section including a substantially circular inferior end (61) and a fenestration (60), followed by a second superior section. Both sections share the same longitudinal axis, are flexible to achieve a curvature between 35 and 45 degrees, and include an impermeable polymeric covering (57). See paragraph [0025]. The second superior section bifurcates into a longer branch (51) and a short appendix (52), forming a distorted "Y". With respect to the device being used in the heart, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, which it is, then it meets the claim.

Claims 2-7, see paragraph [0025] and Figure 5 for first and second sections forming a unique tubular body, and being made of a mesh of threads, the inferior first section including a mesh span (61), and the longer branch (51) including an impermeable polymeric material (57).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 6/12/2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant's argues that amended claim 1 clearly recites a number of dimensional relationships, in particular of cross- sectional sizes that are not shown or suggested in Zarins. In addition the orientation and sizes of the two branches so that they split the rising blood flow are unique and not suggested by the reference.

Art Unit: 3738

Contrary to applicant's arguments, see Zarins paragraphs [0026] and [0027].

Applicant's specification fails to point out the unobvious and/or unexpected results stemming from the various dimensional relationships. Examiner contends that those skilled in the art will recognize that the dimensions of the extension cuff, cuff branch and access port may vary as required by the specific application and limitations of the patient.

Furthermore, applicant's arguments fail to comply with 37 CFR 1.111(b) because they amount to a general allegation that the claims define a patentable invention without specifically pointing out how the language of the claims patentably distinguishes them from the references.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
